FAMILY INTERVIEW ASSIGMENT

Interview To My Father

The person I'm closest to in my family is my dad. We've always got on and we hardly ever fall out. He doesn't mind anything that I do and is always there for me. He's a loving, caring, kind, and protective father to me.

His childhood was a bit rough though, he was born from a poor family but he was happy and so energetic. He works so hard since he was young and later on, he was educated in North Dagon university with a philosophy degree.

One of his hobbies is vehicles, which he gets money from by purchasing and selling. He's also fascinated with plant cultivation and animal husbandry.

He's an outgoing and sociable guy. He enjoys going out with his friends to some tea shops. Everyone thinks he's good fun.

I look up to him because he's so dedicated and ambitious. He never sits still and works long hours. He's so determined, very self-assured, and always creative with his work.

I interviewed my mother of some things about her. I first asked her what her favorite food was and she answered saying kyay-oh since it's a hot-pot kind, she loves to eat them very much. Her favorite part of it is the soup base.

Next, I asked her what her hobbies were in her youth, and it was window-shopping, basically the thing where you just look at things behind windows from shops and bakeries and more but won't buy it unless you're interested.

The third question I asked my mom was what her favorite movie is. Spirited Away from Studio Ghibli was her favorite movie, my mom really loves watching Studio Ghibli movies and knows a lot about them. Me and my mom want to go to the Ghibli Museum someday.

The fourth question was her favorite sport. I couldn't really see my mom having a hobby of playing basketball, football, tennis, or the kind of stuff on ground, but I could see her having a hobby of hiking which it was what she responded to my question with. She goes on lots of hiking trips with the school teachers and students and staff there.

About the fifth question, which was her favorite show, it was called One Hill Tree. I've never seen it before but she has. It was produced before I was born. She said that it's about family, high-school, and drama. I asked my mom what she thought of it and replied saying, "It feels like I'm in the show while watching it.".

Interview with my cousin sister.

My cousin sister has been a supportive girl growing up. She's 13 years older than me. She's been living alone for years now. She's works as a hair dresser. Her hobbies are reading books and drawing. She's acts like an old lady most of the time complaining. When I was young, she always has to babysits me most of the days. Growing up we used to not get along because of our age gap and stuff. She's a short and chubby person. She's really social not like me. She usually like making new friends where ever we go. Her favorite kinds of fruits are strawberries and usually eat them if they are in season but if they aren't she usually eat apples these two are her favorite fruits. She's really a goofball around people she's really close to. She loves going to malls and buys clothes with her boyfriend. She has been in a relationship with him for almost 8 years. She's the most beautiful and prettiest girl I have known in my life.

An Interview with my Father

I interviewed my father and asked him about his hobbies when he was young, sports he liked and about his childhood.

He was born in 22nd of June, 1959 and had 3 older brothers and 1 younger sister. His father who is my grandfather passed away when he was at the age of 11. So, he was raised by my grandmother.

During his school life, he loved playing football as well as volleyball and he was a smart child. His favorite subject was Chemistry. He got high marks which were enough to send him to medical university.

He became a doctor, worked as a doctor for a while and then went to Japan and worked there. When he came back to Myanmar, he got married and I was born.

An Interview with My Sister

I interviewed my sister who is 17 years old (4 years older than me) and 5'4 which is quite tall. She is a very good elder sister and she would always tolerate my bullying. We do fight like every other sibling but they are always over trivial things so we make up very quickly. I learned both new and old things about her during the interview. She likes K-pop, organizing/decorating her room, studying and reading on topics she finds interesting but her actual hobbies is cooking. Her favorite color is Louis Brown and she swears that she'll never cut her hair. I asked about her childhood and she said it wasn't bad but it wasn't good either, which is surprising to me because my parents spoiled me rotten when I was younger. She told me that she wasn't the brightest child and would never get good grades (she is a Straight A student now). Instead of encouraging her and comforting her, my parents would always scold and say harsh things to her. They probably thought that she needed to toughen up. They would tell her to study whenever she had free time and because of the pressure, she only got worse grades. This continued until primary 4 when she suddenly got better grade and my parents loosened up a bit after I was born. I feel bad for her but she told me she is thankful instead because she learned to be humble but not humble enough to be a pushover from those harsh years.

First, I would like to start off by saying I ask more questions than average person but I usually do not remember some of their answers. I ask people questions because I want to get to know them more. Eventually, I realized that I do not know much about my dad. So, I decided to interview him for this assignment. [REDACTED]

Here is how the interview went. (I told him I am going to interview him)

Me: What is your favorite color? [REDACTED]

Dark Blue, Navy color, or, Marine color

Me: How old are you? [REDACTED]

I am 54 years old. [REDACTED]

Which person in the family do you hate the most?

None... Nobody (I don't believe this)

Why did you choose this career? [REDACTED]

My childhood was in workshop. So, I want to know machine and mechanism. I got the bachelor and, then Master Degree in this field.

What did you do when you were younger? [REDACTED]

I had to help my dad at his workshop. [REDACTED]

What's your favorite animal? [REDACTED]

Cat and dog. Hmmm, ... Just write dog. I used to have cats back in my old home.

As you may or may not see, my father helps his father a lot when he was a child. It honestly makes me feel happy but sad as I do not spend time with him much. Hopefully, this interview helps me with what to get him for his birthday. All I can say is I hope I can get closer with my dad. [REDACTED]

I am interviewing my father who is 45 years old, He used to a restaurant manager but because of the COVID the restaurant closed down now he is living in our home waiting the pandemic to end so he can go back and work.

I asked him and my grandma about his childhood and I found out that he was a very well-known trouble maker in his school. According to my grandma and him my father once tricked a group of girls in his class to skip school and later he snitched on them with his friends and those girls get into trouble He usually hang out with his friends, play football with them and go to the theaters with the. One time my father got caught skipping school by my grandma.

One of the craziest things he had done was when he was 16 or 17 (most likely 17) he got bad grades in his 10th grade exam, so my father got scolded by his mom and dad. He ran away from home and joined the army by lying his age, it took a couple of weeks for his parents to realize what he was actually doing so like they asked one of their friends who is a major in the army to report about the problem for them and soon my father was kicked out of his unit.

For this assignment, I interviewed the family member that I'm closest with, my younger brother. His name is Simon and he's currently 11. I decided to ask him about his opinion on me, things he likes and dislikes about me, and what he does in his free time. [REDACTED]
He told me that he sees me as a friend rather than an older sister. He said that this was because I am still childish and acts like people around his age. This is the reason why he doesn't have any respect towards me and just talks to me in a casual way. However, he added that it is better to have a sister your age than a sister older than you. [REDACTED]

'To be honest, I can't think of any good points about you.', he says. I told him that he needed to think carefully and give me a few points at least. He finally gave in and said that I am a really good partner in crime. We both working together might end the whole world, he says. He also added that I'm a really good person to gossip about his friends and people he doesn't like because I'm a good listener. He said that I have a great fashion sense and always help him pick nice outfits. [REDACTED]

His mouth flooded with words when I started asking him about things that he hates about me. I can't basically include all of them but he said that I like too boss him around too much. He says that I'm a bit too controlling on his life but on my side, I just wanted the best for him. He also dislikes the fact that I get jealous easily and that he can't get any attention from our parents without me interrupting. Writing this, I [REDACTED] shouldn't have asked this question to him. [REDACTED]

He mostly plays games with his friends during his free time and he says that he likes the game 'roblox' a lot. He used to play a game called 'Genshin Impact' but he got bored of it. He doesn't enjoy watching movies or series but he does enjoy watching anime. His favorite is Attack on Titan, the same as mine. Apart from that, he added that he also likes to play with his pet dog too. [REDACTED]

Family Interview Assignment

Hello, as for this assignment, I interviewed my younger sister for this assignment. She is 10 years old, 3 years younger than me. She was born in 2011. She is a kind girl with a great personality. She is really pretty too.

Her hobbies:

She likes to draw, swim, play games and likes dressing up. She like to draw her own characters which are mostly girls and she also like to draw pictures of me and give me. She like to swim even though she doesn't know how to swim. It's cute. She loves playing Roblox and Genshin Impact, she mostly plays on my account. As for dressing up, she loves to do it with me since I like putting pieces together.

What she likes about me:

She said she likes how I help her with things. And she likes that I am pretty, kind and smart. But I honestly don't think I am pretty nor smart. I am glad she thinks I am pretty, she is really pretty too.

What she hates about me:

She hates when I get mad at her. She said she think I don't love her or hate her. I really love her. I do not hate her at all except the fact that she can be annoying sometimes. She also hates it when I cry or ignore her but I just needed space.

Her favorite thing to do with me:

She likes to have pillow fights with me, eating with me and playing games with me. She also likes to drive around with me. I really like to spend time with her too.

Her future dream/goal:

She has said that she wants to be an actor or a model. What a great goal. She is really beautiful and have a very nice personality and mind. I am sure she can do this and get her dream job. Since she doesn't like to give up easily.

Interviewing my dad,

I tried to interview my dad about his childhood, hobbies etc. He is 44 years old. When I interviewed my dad he said when he was young his hobbies are cycling because of his environment. He said because of having wide fields and getting fresh air, it became his hobby. He likes to talk us about his childhood life and when we eat together or when he is free he used to talk about it.

During his childhood, he had a few difficulties such as money problems. But he tried his best to support us. He also had some high spots with his friends. My dad had attended Sa-Gain university. When he attended university he lived with his elderly sister and his sister cooked for my dad. But he didn't live together because of his university. He said he had funs with his friends and he teased with his friends to others. When he was little his ambition was to become a mechanical engineer but actually he became civil engineer. I thought he had fun with his childhood life and still now having fun.

Interview with my sister

For this assignment, I decided to interviewed my elder sister since she is closer to me in my family. She is 20 and I am 13. We have a 7 years age gap which is a lot but I tend to catch up with her and we get along.

Her hobby

I asked her about her hobbies and it would definitely be reading. We have a room in my house for her just for her books. She has been collecting them with her money since she was very young and she really hate it if someone touch them without her permission. She also loves playing games. Sometimes, we play together.

What annoy her the most about me?

She answered that I am very lazy and sometimes she hates it a lot especially when I said I will do this today and I end up doing them other days. She also said that I don't take things very seriously and she doesn't like it especially when it's very important but I just look like I don't care.

What does she like about me?

She said I am a very good person to open up. I listen to her very patiently whenever she has a problem and if she needs help, I gave her the best advice.

How was her life before I was born?

She said there isn't much changes except the fact that she was like the youngest after my brother so my parents favor her a lot and love her very much but after I was born, I became the youngest so they don't favor her anymore.

Her future goals

She is currently a university student in Singapore and she said after she finished she just want to live there and find a job for herself which can pay her a good salary. She said she thinks she is still very young to go for marriage so she just wants a normal life with a good pay where she can spend all the money on herself and buy things she wants.

An Interview With My Elder Brother

There are four family members in our family. They are my father, my mother, my brother and myself. My parents are always busy with their business. So, I interviewed my brother when he finished his lessons. He was born on 22nd June 2000. I asked him about his childhood. He said that he was a very talkative and playful child. Since he is 6 years older than me, he always treats me kindly. So, we are happy brother and sister. I also asked his hobby. According to him, he has a lot of hobbies. They are reading, video editing and playing soccer. He usually plays soccer at the weekends. He is interested in writing. When he got leisure time, he often writes poem, novel and etc He is very smart as well. Sometimes, he takes me to the snack shop with him. I love him very much. I'm really glad that he is being my brother.

Family interview

I interviewed my family members about their childhood and their hobbies. My dad is an admired person for me. In his childhood he liked biking and travelling. For present he cherishes to draw sketch for building and he loves travelling till now. And he likes making jokes and he makes us laugh. My mom is also excellent person for me. She takes care our whole family. She enjoys gardening, reading, and watching action movies. She like most of the colors especially red and black. In her childhood, she imagines to be a doctor but, in her future, she became an engineer. She always thinks of us first. My sister like watching anime a lot. She always prioritizes me even she pretends like she is angry. And she also likes kpop groups and animals. My grandma really helps us and she can cook very well especially Myanmar traditional food that is why her hobby is cooking. I really love being a family member of my family.

My Mother's Childhood

Parents are the most influential factors in our lives and being a parents require many responsibilities to fulfill. Thus, also play the biggest role in our development.

I believe, parenting would be one of the hardest job in the world and that's what makes my mother special. Taking care of children, doing house chores as well as working is a hard task to cope with, and I greatly admire my parents for trying their best to offer us a good life.

So today, I interviewed my mother about her life, especially about her childhood.

As a child, my mother grew up with four siblings and she's the middle child. My mother had a memorable childhood, she even mentioned "I was the happiest when I was a child". Although her life was good, she was a sickly child. She had anemia like me and would often passed out or be hospitalized countless times. Because of that, she wasn't able to attend school most of the time. Despite her sickness, she had a chance to create many nice memories.

My mother always had a passion for singing until now. She also loved watching movies with her friends after school, where they'd gather at a certain place because back then, technology wasn't that advance and the country hasn't prosper much. She's really interested in science too, she love to dissect and observe animals.

Her dream was to become a doctor because she wanted to save people lives and help people out as much as she could. But due to her frequent sickness, she wasn't able to establish her dream. But she always try to help someone in need, as she've taught me "You should always lend a helping hand". My mom's a kind & tender person who doesn't think twice to help people in need. I enjoyed listening to stories about her childhood and I'm sure she had made many unforgettable memories that she treasure until now.

An Interview with My Brother

My brother is 15 years old, 2 years older than me. Gaming is one of his hobbies, you can typically find him busy clicking and clacking away on the keyboard all day. When he's not gaming, he also spends time watching anime or YouTube.

He's a very stubborn and straight-to-the-point type of person. Even though we share a room together we haven't been that close these days due to both of us being caught up in our own lives. When we were little, we used to watch cartoons and random DVDs our parents gifted us. We were always entertained by anything playing on TV. I can recall we used to playfight and wrestle for fun.

Even though we have squabbles and argue like every other sibling, I feel like the household would be pretty boring and quiet without him.

Family Interview Assignment

For this assignment, I interviewed my older sister, May Moe Naing. I asked her about her hobbies, what it was like before I was born, and many other things too.

Her hobbies are singing and reading. Besides that, she says 'I like annoying you as a hobby too.' She also stans many K-Pop groups like NCT, Red Velvet, Aespa, Treasure, and Enhypen. She likes collecting K-Pop albums.

'My childhood was very fun before you were born because they favored me back then.', she says. She liked barbie and still does, even though she's 17 and almost ready to go to college. Her favorite barbie movie is 'Barbie In A Mermaid Tale'.

In her free time, she watches K-drama and anime. Her favorite K-drama right now is either 'Racket Boys' or 'Penthouse S1' and 'Penthouse S2'. She is now currently waiting for Season 5 of Haikyuu to come out. She's watching 'Kakegurui' while waiting for Haikyuu's latest season to be released.

Interviewing my brother,

I'm basically the oldest in my siblings, I have a brother the middle one and a sister the youngest one. Today, I decided to interview my brother, since he is a lot easier to communicate to. I told him to not fool around during the interview which he kind of obliged. So, this is basically how the interview went.

T stands for me, of course and B stands for my brother.

T: Let's start with the name, shall we?

B: I'm your brother and you know that but Kyal Sin Aung

T: Age?

B: 10 turning 11 next month! My birthday!

T: Grade?

B: Six

T: Any hobbies?

B: GAMINGG!

T: Aside from that

B: Fine, writing, I want to become an author one day.

T: That sounds more decent, well what about sports?

B: No, I hate it.

T: Do you have a certain reason for that?

B: No, I just hate it.

T: Okay, fair enough, Favorite subject?

B: Maths

T: And do you have a reason for that?

B: NO! Why are you even asking! Is just good, okay?!

T: Okay, I suggest we stop the interview, thanks for cooperating.

B: Finally!

I wouldn't say he's the easiest to communicate but is better than my sister, so this is the information I can give. If I continued any farther, I'm afraid we might end up bickering.

An Interview with my Dad

I interviewed my dad. He was born in February 25 1981, He is 40 years old. He is a Pisces, and he works as a phone mechanic. His favorite color is black and red. He is a VERY mature person. His hobbies are reading and swimming. His favorite subject is lunch. When he was young, at his school, he didn't play video games but instead played with rubber hands, hide and seeks, and Tag. He was a person with a lot of memories. For example, when he's having dinner with my grandfather's friend, he said "This is not the noodles I eat." He would always have to listen to my grandpa and grandma's orders because if he doesn't.....nevermind that...He says he's a "lazy person" and said being lazy is not being stupid, its just wanting to learn things quicker. His favorite food is Pork Noodles (Kyay Oh Sikyat). He is a really funny and wise guy but gets really mad when someone does something he doesn't like. He is a fish person. He hates cats because when he was young, he had to take care of 9 cats because my grandmother wanted to keep them to get the mice away. He couldn't stand them, because of the litter. He's okay with dogs though. He got a degree in Physics. He tells jokes but of course my mom doesn't really find them funny- I mostly talk to my dad, because he's my favorite member of the family (I still love my mom), but he's not a person with that much opinions, but he's still great. After he met my mom, my grandma and grandpa didn't really approve although both my mom and my dad took care of her until she passed away in 2017. I felt heartbroken but I didn't cry. Neither did my father. he became a sailor. He met many spectacular countries, like Phillipines, Italy, Rome, etc. He was a sailor for two years and retired. I almost forgot, he is also a blood donor. He has been donating blood since 2014, 23 times. He was also one of the biggest blood donors' group founder at The National Blood Centre for 2019-2020. Following by his workers, and my mom's elder sister. And know, what do I think of him? Well, he may be a short tempered man, but he and my mother known me even when I was still in my mother's womb. They always looked after me and chose me after everything. He gave me an education, he gave me support, he gave me love, he gave me everything, so how could I not say I love him?

My Sister

I interviewed my sister about her hobbies and things she likes to do during her free time. She said that she spent most of her time watching animes. She also likes reading manga and short horror story books. But she is too lazy to read books that are rather long and she told me that she would always feel sleepy reading it.

She is a second year student in university, but currently her university is closed due to covid. Therefore, she got a lot of free time to do what she likes. She is introverted and not sociable so, she rarely hangs out with her friends. She likes all sorts of drawings like water painting, acrylic painting, digital art and sketching. She is hardworking and smart. Since she was young, she always got high scores in class. So my parents never get to worry about her. She also eats a lot. But she always helps mom with cooking. She is also a good cooker. During weekends, I would help her bake some cakes or make a pizza.

She also likes to sing and dance but she is bad at singing and dancing. However, she likes music a lot and also likes to play piano. She used to go to piano classes but for some reasons, she stop going. As a result, her piano skill now is still in beginner level. But, nothing stops her from trying to play. She always watch piano tutorial from YouTube and try to learn it. She is also interested in language learning. Currently, she is learning Japanese and she said she would learn Thai in the near future. During her free time, she would sit in her room, either studying or drawing. She sometimes teaches me Maths and Science because I am really bad at them. Her favorite subject is Maths and she is also really good at it. She also likes to solve riddles and puzzles and sometimes, I would even join with her. She is not a gamer but there is one app she often plays with me. It's called Minecraft, where you get to be creative and build houses. She has a lot of hobbies and stuff to do so, she seems to be busy everyday.

Interview with my sister

During my holiday week, I interviewed my sister since we both had our time off school. It was an excellent time to get to know her more. Just as we were relaxing I picked up a conversation with her which led to many stories that I would never have known. First of all, for the basic information, my sister is Yu Nandar Soe, a 15-year-old girl who is currently studying in Secondary 4. She is the only sister I have. She has a quite peaceful personality, she doesn't really get into trouble and quite calm.

She really likes to draw, I have always seen her draw pictures and sketch in her leisure time. Not only does she draw, but she paints. A few paintings can be seen around our house and those all belong to her. She is very artistic and her hobbies are mostly connected to art. If not, she would be in the kitchen baking. She cooks very often; the results are also pretty close to what she is trying to make. I am always the first one to taste her food.

As we have grown up together, we share our childhood memories together. She told me one of her favorite moments when she had her first experience in dancing together with her friends for a concert. I witnessed it that night, our parents could see her excitement showing throughout the night. She told me how amazing it was to perform on the stage, especially with her best friends. She also shared another remarkable day that she had experienced. It was when our family went on a trip to the beach. We were pretty young back then, so we didn't really know how a beach looked like. It was early in the morning when the sun rose up in the sky in front of us. The sea was sparkling under the sun rays. She even remembers everything that we did together, picking up seashells on shore and finding star fishes in the water.

Me and my sister have a good relationship, but sometimes we quarrel about a few things. But, we still talk to each other again, just like other siblings. It is actually fun to have a sibling because you always have someone to play with when we are bored.

From the interview, I even got a chance to know her dream, which is to become either an architect or an interior designer. I was shocked to know this because she had never told anyone about his. But it was pretty explainable to me because she is skilled in drawing and sketching which these jobs must contain.

I wish I had another week to spend time with her again. During conversations, I knew many things that she never told to anyone. I am really looking forward to have another conversation with her.

I interviewed my little sister, Cece. She is 5 years old and now attending kindergarten. These are some of the things that I asked to my sister.

Me: Hi! I am going to ask you a few questions about yourself.

Cece: mmm sounds good.

Me: What're your hobbies?

Cece: My hobbies are gardening, drawing, and playing dress-up.

Me: Do you like reading and writing?

Cece: I like reading books and text but I am not really a fan of writing.

Me: Why not?

Cece: I don't really enjoy it since I think is boring.

Me: What are your interests?

Cece: Well, I am interested in animals, plants, moon, planets, and more...

Me: Can you tell me about some of your favorite things? Like your favorite food, movie, beverages, color, subjects?

Cece: Ah favorite food coconut noodles and crab curry. Favorite movie... I guess the Angry Birds.

Cece: Beverage- strawberry and chocolate milkshakes, color- pink, blue and green, I just love those bright colors.

Cece: And for the subjects Science, Fine Art, Geography, and PE.

Me: Right one last question. What do you what to be when you grow up?

Cece: An astronomer of course I just love exploring space.

Me: Wow that's sounds great. Well thanks of answering my questions.

Cece: My pleasure.

She is 15 years old. She is attending grade 9. She loves to listen to the music when she gets tired. She is quite in public. She loves to watch anime, movie and YouTube in her free time. She is a mulish person but she is a kind person.

- I interviewed my younger brother, who is 7 years old and currently in primary school.
- He enjoys playing games and talking a lot. He watches YouTube videos in his spare time. He is an extrovert.
- I am an introvert who does not speak so much or make new friends as he does.
- He enjoyed drawing. He was a helpful child.

I decided to interview my mom the other day. Here was how it went: I was curious about what my mom's childhood was like, so I decided to ask her about it. Apparently, she spent most of her time doing chores, reading, studying, taking care of the younger siblings, helping them with school as my mom used to do well in school. She also likes to play table tennis with her siblings, even though her childhood sounds fun, it was mistaken. Her brothers and sisters would usually cause problems, fight, argue and get her in trouble, which she said was annoying. She shoulders many responsibilities, one time, there was a big fire and while the fire was spreading wildly, my mom carried her youngest brother, ran to the mountains without shoes and it was a crazy moment. During her childhood, there were many other unique and unforgettable moments. It turned out that her childhood was more extraordinary than I thought it would be.

I interviewed about my little brother. His name is Zaykha Sun Tun. We call him to Zaykha. He is 6 years younger than me. Now he is 6 years old. He attended KG. He like watching TV and playing games. Sometime he draw the picture. He's so playful. When he was born he is so cute and his hair color is brown liked my hair color. Strangely his eyes color is grey. Most of the time we're fighting because he is so noisy. He interest about science very much. He always watching National Geographic Channel. He is a smart kid but I think he is also rowdy.

I interviewed my brother; he is 18 years old and he is currently in college. He likes to play games, play with animals, and listen to songs. He usually draws in his free time. He loves dogs. He is kind but also annoying at the same time. He is 5 years older than me. He usually spends times with me by playing board games. He never shares his food to me, but I always must. He is a quiet person.

Last Sunday I interviewed my sister. She is 10-year-old and she is attending in grade 5. She is smart and annoying. She like to watch cartoons and YouTube. She is also very talkative. She is plum and tall. Although she is young, she has big dream. Her dream is to be a teacher. Her hobbies are writing stories, reading books, writing song, and listening to music. Moreover, she wants to be a tuition teacher. She also likes to draw character in the free time. She said she likes reading because a person who can read a book a day is more value than a person who cannot read any book. She also really likes beauty. She said she wants to be smart physically and mentally. So, I wonder what will happen in the future.

- I Love My Sister

Family interview assignment

My sister

I interviewed my sister. She is only THREE, but she's extremely dramatic and is always acting like she's the queen of the world or something. She loves cats and phone games. She likes watching cartoons. She always forces me to play with her dolls, and she makes my parents shout at me if I do not want to. Her favorite color, like all little girls, is pink. She loves eating candy. Honestly, we do not really get along, we scream at each other. She loves hurting me, like scratching, biting and hitting me (there's more), which makes her scolded by my parents but she doesn't really seem to care about her consequences as long as I'm hurt. Everyone literally just tells us that we are just over acting but I don't think so because we technically just hate seeing each other's faces or hearing each other's names. She told me that she wants to be an actor when she is older, and I suppose she will be famous for her acting, because she always is acting so well in front of the adults that I often end up being the one scolded even though she was the one who did all the bad things. I really want to know if we ever will get along or not.

I am the youngest child in my family and I only have one older brother. So, for my family interview assignment, I decided to interview him. My brother's name is Lynn Htet Kyaw. He is 6 years older than me so he is now 19 years old. He has already graduated high school with all flying colors. Now he is in university and he has chosen to study electrical engineering. In his free times, he mostly uses his phone using social medias or chatting with his friends. He also likes to play games. He usually plays GTA or Gen shin Impact on his computer. He is thin and tall. He stays fit by doing workouts normally. Before covid, he often goes to the gym but after covid, he can only do exercises at home. He also plays football. He was a member of the football team in high school. The other things that he likes to do is watching movies and listening to music. He downloads the movies and we sometimes watch it together. From what I see, he always watches like action and thriller movies so maybe it is his favorite movie genre. For food, he is not very picky which is not like me. He eats all kinds of food and drinks. His favorite food is Italian food. I also like Italian food so we sometimes order Spaghetti or pizzas. Whenever we go on trips, I always have to take photos of him but he is not satisfied easily with his pictures. So, I had to take pictures again that I became angry and annoyed. Anyways, he is very helpful. He helps me with my lessons that I don't understand. He always gives me ideas for writing essays and letters. We also share our clothes. I wear the clothes that he doesn't fit and sometimes we have the same size of t-shirts and we don't know who is wearing whose so it's kind of a mess. Well, of course, we are siblings so we don't get along every time. We often fight each other over small things but get along after a few minutes. He is the person that I have always admired and looked up to. He is such a kind and great person.

He might only be taller than me by a forehead, but he is very intimidating. He talks loudly and does not hesitate to say what's on him mind. He is by no means afraid of confrontations and, like all of us, has his strengths and flaws.

I asked him about his work, to which he told me that he works as a "Marine Technical Superintendent." His job consisted of him being a seaman for a few years, an engineer on ships, and now him being one of the higher ups, with some important decisions of the ships being made by him. In short, lots and lots of paperwork

He does not have hobbies per say, but he does some gardening (just potted plants).

His upbringing was, expectedly, uneventful.

His aspirations were to "Be a little better than average" which I think is admirable, because he would not have too high expectations of himself.

• When I made the mistake of asking him if he was content with where he was now, he had a (albeit boring) philosophical monologue. The monologue is as follows:

"Well, everyone has their different definitions of being content. Some want money, others power. I think that being happy with yourself as a person is the best thing. If you carried yourself well and were at least a decent person in your life, you did better than most. Which is good enough."

• Of course, that was just a summary of what he said in his 12 minute long monologue, translated from Burmese to English, but nevertheless, I think he is right.

• People can have weird and different outtakes on life, but those "weird and different" outtakes are normal to them. It's all just a game of chance on what your future will be, a speeding taxi where you are in the backseat, giving directions that may or may not be followed. And before I go rambling on about the meaning of happiness, thank you for listening to this presentation.

I interview my Mom. My mom name is Daw Khin Nyein win. My mom has an older sister. When my mom was young she said she love playing with her sister and she was very smart. And her hobbies was to play with sand and play with her sister. My mom interest was to become a actress. My mom meet my dad in the year of 2002. My father love my mother first my mom is from Yangon and my dad is form mawlamye. Once my mom got bullied my some boy and her sister help her fight the boy away.

Interview with my best friend

For this assignment I got here, I interviewed my best friend. I'm not going to say her name for her privacy. She's 12 years old and soon is going to be 13 by October. I'm a year younger than her but she treats me like her own sister. We've known e/o for approximately seven years but became best friends only by last year so I pretty much know all about her. We barely get into a fight. I would spill every tea that was made in the class and she also spill every tea from her class.

I asked her about her hobbies, favorite food, favorite color, what she enjoy doing in her free time and more. Her hobbies are listening to music, going through social media like YouTube, Pinterest, Instagram and random online shops. She has many favorite foods but banana and cheese pasta are her favorites. Her favorite color has been yellow since forever. Her dream job is to be a blogger since she's in love with travelling these days and if I remember it right, she followed many YouTube bloggers. Her Pinterest is full of girly girls' dream life. She wants to settle down in Italy but wants to attend university in London. She usually do her jobs and barely get lower than 8/10. I asked her when she is the most frustrated and was not surprised with the answer that she gave me. Since she is a perfectionist, she would cry if she won't fall asleep till midnight.

As you see, my bestie might seem okay but she needs a therapist. She also have many personalities that figuring out which side of her personality she should use to people is also one of her struggles. I am glad she's happier now and that I have been a good friend of her.

I interviewed my best friend who is 14 years old. His name is Aaron and his Burmese name is Aung Khant Nyarr. He used to attend ILBC when he was young. He is 5'9 ft. He likes to play football and video games. He is my duo comp partner in Valorant. He attends diplomatic school Yangon right now but he'll be leaving school anytime soon. He wants to be a gamer and an architect when he grows up.

- I interviewed my father and there are some question I asked.

Me) When is your birthday ?

Dad) It is around March or May 30th.

(Fun fact: His parents never told him his birthday so he calculate it himself. Plus he never tell the year)

Me) What sports do you like?

Dad) I like football, swimming and wrestling.

Me) Uhm...what kind of activity did you like as a kid?

Dad) I like playing with the farm animal and help out my father.

I interviewed with my mother, and asked her about her child hood given that she is to tell story about it when I was little. She a strong hearted and a selfless person who would think about family first than herself, she have a lot of sisters and brother and lives in a big family who is kind to one another but she was the first to step out off her comfort zone and married my father even though he had to take a blood test while asking the condolence for her hand in marriage. They had funny story like the time when everyone in the family thought that my father bought a diamond ring although it was a random white quartz for her. Those were the good old days.

I interviewed my little sister who is 12 years old, she don't have much interests and hobby but she is in grade 6 and she likes to play games. She watches drama or entertaining videos on You Tube in her free time. She likes to talk about her game play and would rage easily while being angry at either her team mates or the enemy. She can be a beast when she rage even the slightest thing might make her mad although from all that, she is still a nice person just don't get on her bad side.

I interviewed my older sister, She have a very Big interested in drawing which inspire me to draw myself. She is in the grade 9 and she is a calm collective person who would rather listen to music when she is alone, her favorite You Tuber is Neytirix who draw incredible art pieces and she always be very excited when a new video released. Although both of us draw we always have a Very different art style, mine being cartoony and hers being anime like. She a very smart girl who tries her best in school and would have doubts and worries when she didn't finish her homework in time or get a lower mark than she predict but she is still very smart and I am happy that she make me get into art.

An interview with my grandma.

Loving, caring, and wise she was born in 1956. When I asked her for her birthday she couldn't answer? She didn't know. She grew up in a small rural village and she never got formal education until she was older. She learned to sew, cook, and take care of the farm at a young age. She has been through many tragedies in her life. Her father's death and her husband, my grandfather's early death. I asked her about the events that transpired in the day that my grandfather lost his life. "It was a raid. A group of bandits and terrorists invaded and lay waste to the village. Your grandfather saw our neighbors getting assaulted so he rushed to save them. But it was too late the bandits blew up a bomb killing the neighbors and fatally injured your grandpa. He passed away later in the hospital". This happened when I was 2 a mere toddler I have no recollection of the events nor do I remember my grandfather. I asked her what happened after that and she replied "Eventually I moved on everyone has to but I still miss him. I built a new house and opened a store after with the help of your mother and uncles.". I said "How about the farm animals how did they get there?", she replied "Well I bought two ducks, two chickens and they sort of multiplied.". A day or two after I interviewed my grandma she went back to her home.

Family Interview Assignment

So, I interviewed my dad. I was interested because, I asked him about the thing I never knew about him. He was born in 19/11/1962 at Mingladon. He said that his mom had a lot of difficulties when she born him. Although it was difficult, he was so bright. He has four siblings but among them, he is the youngest. I asked him about his childhood, hobbies, interest and relationship with me. First of all, I asked him about his childhood. He is an intelligent person. He said that always got first, second or third place in class and he likes to compete in competitions like math contest or sports, too. His favorite sport is bowling. He is good to his parents, well-disciplined and hard-working person. His ambition is to be a doctor or a surgeon. He is interested in internet like searching interesting things about his ambition, what is happening around the world and repairing things like light bulb or anything which is broken or useless and he always repair things like light bulb or anything which can't be used. My relationship with me is that whenever he is free, he always plays chess, scramble, some fun games and sometimes we even play soccer. He gives me some brain training math questions if I am free. He is also a strong person. He sometimes gives me pocket money for me to use.

Interviewing my dad.

My dad and I have a 42-year age gap. That makes him 4 decades older than me. Surely times have changed since 1966. So, I went and interviewed him about his childhood and what it was like during his youth.

The first thing I asked was how he went to school; his answer was simple. He'd walk to school every morning with his siblings and friends. It was different, because for me I rarely walked to school. Probably because of the fact that child safety was not as emphasized back then as it is now. The next thing I asked him was what he did at school, and for obvious reasons the studies in school were taught differently back then because there was no IGCSEs or SATs for him. However, one thing I find interesting is that they'd spend time outside a lot. Playing, doing activities or just simply interacting with peers—they were all done outside the school building. I find this interesting because we don't usually go out and play in the grass field, the most we did was play in the gym at lunch break, otherwise our time was usually spent inside.

The last thing I asked was how many friends he had. He said he had lots and was pretty much friends with everyone in his grade. This isn't surprising since my dad has 11 siblings and all of them are pretty outgoing. Surely, he had a lot of fun hanging out with them and probably made many lifelong friends through them. For me however, I find it quite difficult to socially interact with people from my school. Unlike my dad, I only have 1 elder sister and she was 5 grades above me so I couldn't really rely on her to make friends but having an older sibling meant you could rely on them for almost everything so I'm not complaining.

That was how the “interview” with my dad went. It was fun to hear stories about his youth. It makes me want to cherish mine more.

Interviewing my brother

There are 6 members in my family, me, my younger brother, my mom, my dad, my grandma, and my grandpa. I have only one sibling, my younger brother and I am the oldest child. My brother is the youngest one in our family so all our family members flavor him more since he is the youngest. I would say that he is cute but sometimes he can also be annoying, but I still love him. I also could say that we have a good relationship with each other most of the time, but there are also some fights between us. Today, I am going to interview my brother, ask some questions which I have prepared. To be honest, I cannot wait to know how would he response to my questions.

My brother childhood was happy because me, as an elder sister always play with him and make him happy. When, he was young I was the one who usually take care of him and play with him. He is happy when I go to the playground together with him. When, we go to the playground together, he is usually scare of the slide, so I need to put him on my laps and we slide together and it was incredibly fun. He also said that "when me and my sister go to the playground together, go to trips, go to beach, go to park, eat together, read story books together, watch movies and cartoons together, play hide and seek, play with the toys which I like, I feel so happy and glad that I have a sister who really loves me and take care of me." Just by listening to his response, I could feel like I am also the luckiest sister in the world to have such a cute and lovely younger brother.

He told me that he also had a lot of hobbies. He like to watch cartoons or movies on TV or on his I-pad, likes to play games on his I-pad especially games like Roblox and Minecraft. He also enjoys playing football and when him and I play football together, he usually wins so he is surprisingly good at playing football. Although, he likes to play basketball, since he is still short, he could not really throw high enough and score goals. He also enjoys listening music like me. He said his favorite would be drawing and coloring. He usually draws characters from cartoons and show them to me. To be honest, his drawing skills are better than me. He has a talent in art. I would say that he had a lot of hobbies and all of them are great for him.

He told me that he would like to be a doctor when he grown up because he would like to save a lot of people and help a lot of people. He also knows that these days, many people are getting infected by the Covid-19 and the death rate is also high. So, at night he usually told me that "Sister, if I become a doctor one day, I will be able to help and save a lot of people around the world." He also wants to donate medicines and want to give better medical health care to places which are not developed yet. When, he finished studying about medical, he also would like to share his knowledges to other people so that they would also know more about medical. He also told me that he is trying hard in learning start from this age so that he could become a doctor one day and reach his goals in his life. When, I heard this response I could not even believe it. I can now know that he is a big-hearted person and he care a lot about other people. As a sister, I hope he could fulfill his dream by being a successful doctor one day and help a lot of people around the world.

The last questions I will ask him is about the relationship between him and me. He said 'My relationship with my sister is really good and I really love her, since she is my only siblings so I love her more, I really feel happy and grateful to have her as my sister because she always cares about me, play with me and take care of me.' After listening to all his responses, I feel glad. Before, he was born, I was the only child so I thought it is better to be the only child and siblings are quite annoying. But now I could say that it is not true because only if you have siblings, you can rely on one another and take care of each other.

Interviewing my brother

Today I interviewed my brother. He is 9 years old and he is in 4th grade. He like to play games and draw. He also like to watch TV and YouTube. Sometime when he don't know what to do or feel bored, he just walks or run around the house. He is very talkative, annoying, and never shut up. He also eats a lot.

"The very first interview with my parents
Where I learnt precious moral lessons
And developed prettiest moments ever."

I have never thought of interviewing a person, particularly someone I feel close to. Whoever looks at this, it seems awkward after all. Therefore, I didn't initially dare to ask my parents about their past life and what exceptional memories or struggles they had had. As a daughter, I am also interested in knowing much more about them. So, I gained confidence and eventually asked my parents whether they had the desire to accept my interview.

Yes, they did after several hesitations not because they don't want to, it is just because they can't give much time for this.

But finally, we got to start our first interview.

My dad is now a doctor and so is my mum but they came from a slightly different lives before they met each other after pursuing this career.

First part with my dad

My dad shared about his tough childhood life with me. Although he is moderately rich and afford a reasonably comfortable lifestyle now, his old days were not identical. My grandparents from my dad's side used to live a harsh life since they had to work hard physically just to earn small amount to money for all of their children-my dad's siblings-until the medicine my grandpa produced became successful. My grandparents and uncles worked hard to support my dad's education. Knowing this, my dad never gave up in his education, keeping his steps forwards stack together with the everyday reminder of his sacrificing family while aiding his parents in his spare time on one hand. After many life struggles, he finally managed to be accepted by the medicine university and his bright days kept waiting for him including the arrival of my mum, me and my brother into his life.

Second part with my mum

My mum derived from a normal rich family as my grandpa is a doctor. Therefore, her parents were able to hire tutors for her education and also my grandparents from my mum's side didn't need to live a hard life like my dad's side although my grandpa had to work really hard for his large family. Although my mum hasn't been in poverty, she is extremely generous and a good listener like she listened to my dad's life.

Highlight Part of the interview

The main part I am precious of is the short lecture given by my dad.

What he said is “Not everyone can live comfortably like us. Therefore, we should always be satisfied with we have, not desiring for more.”

Another life lesson he gave is “Daddy couldn’t afford to do the courses when I was young. Everything I could do was to do my best and not to give up for anything. As hard work can determine your life, try everything as much as you can. We will always be rooting for you here.”

I learnt many things from this interview so I am glad that I did this. I could even say this is the prettiest time for me. We all shared our feelings and they taught me about the expected and unexpected events that are waiting for us on our way. I also got to know about the different lifestyles which helps me be a more empathetic person in our society. So, I am quite sure that I won’t never forget this interview and also hope you all also get some knowledge from this writing.

I interview my mom

I interview my mom and I got interesting things that I never knew about her. The first thing I asked her about was her childhood. She told me that when she was young, she was popular at school. She told me that she had guard dogs around the house but she rarely plays with them. Another question I asked to my mom was about her hobbies. She told me that her hobbies were cooking and traveling. I wasn't really surprised by this because she always does this thing. The last question I ask was about her interest. She told me she was interested in nature. She told me she also interested in animals like rhino, eagle and whale.

My Aunty Beyond Her Hobbies

Back in 1992, my aunty was born as a happy kid in a small village in Myanmar. Although times were really difficult in these days, she grew older with love and care of the family.

Since she was so young, her dad resigned from a government work and run a small business in a small town near the forest that was far from the village. Her mum was a government teacher and as well her aunties. She used to travel back and forth from the village to the town where her father worked so often in the early years of her life. That's why, she loved travelling since her childhood to yet.

However, she hates working as a teacher by looking at her mum and aunties because she thought that was a tiring job. She always refused to work as a teacher and she bravely said that she won't choose her career as a teacher.

As well as travelling, my aunty loved to draw when she was around 9 or 10. Her dad bought paints and canvas for her to draw and she even competed in a drawing competition and won a second prize. However, she wasn't interested in drawing anymore when she grew older.

When she became a teenager, she started interesting in taking photos of landscapes and portraits. She liked to be taken photo of herself too. Therefore, she still had lots of photos that she took and was taken. When the time went by, she forgot taking photos and her mind was attracted by the other thing.

Her hobbies and interests were changing times by times. Later, she started to work as a presenter but her life didn't give her a chance to follow her hobbies. She worked for her family as soon as she was graduated.

Although she refused to be a teacher, she started her working life by guiding students how to learn. Her students adored her as she was smart and active so they encouraged her to be a teacher. Gradually, she loved teaching and felt happy every time she saw her students' success. Finally, she decided herself to be a profession in educational area and living her life as teacher.

My Father

My father's name is U Kyaw Swar. He was born in a small Town. He has two brothers and a sister and he is the eldest of the four siblings. As parents, both the mother and father have distinctive roles in the upbringing of their children. The father plays an especially significant role in the family. He is often the one who earns the bread for the family. He is also considered the head of the family. My father is an extremely sweet and loving person. But he is also strict at times to keep us disciplined. He takes care of every small need of ours and is always there for every member of the family to help us in times of financial or emotional needs. He is relentlessly working for our comfort and he has the best interest in the heart whenever we need his advice. He always tries to help us by sharing his experiences or the values he learnt since childhood. He always enlightens us with whatever he had faced in his life and how he was able to overcome them. He not only tells us about his achievements but also his shortcomings so that we could learn from them. He is my favorite person and the role-model of my life.

My father is very friendly by nature. I share a nice bond with him. I tell him all my day-to-day problems. He always takes care of me and supports me whenever I need him. He is a quite simple man and lives a life of discipline, virtues, and peace. Even in his hectic daily schedule, he finds time to spend with his family. We often play together and he teaches me how to play badminton. He likes to cook in his spare time. He prepares my favorite dishes like pasta, chicken curry, biryani, etc. He always helps my mother in the kitchen and often prepares breakfast and packs our lunch.

My father has taught me the ethics and etiquettes of life which will always help me in my future. He teaches us to be humble and help those who are in need. He also preaches a healthy and balanced lifestyle and practices yoga himself. My father is my hero!

Family Interview Assignment-Honey Swe

The person that I'm interviewing is my mother. I interviewed about the hobbies that she likes to do in her spare time. The number of hobbies is endless. Reading, stamp-collecting, traveling, gardening, photography, music, biography, hunting, playing with children, teaching illiterate adults, playing football etc., are some of the well-known hobbies. Hobbies make life more meaningful and enjoyable.

After a day's hard work and labor, a hobby is so refreshing and interesting. Hobbies prepare us for more hard work the next day. They are a very cheap source of entertainment, enjoyment and meaningful use of leisure time. Without a hobby, a person will feel bored and annoyed during leisure hours. In these days of scientific advancement and so many inventions, hobbies have become all the more important. Now, life is so comfortable and easy and there is lot of leisure time. Reading is my mom's hobby. She reads magazines, newspaper, storybooks, short novels, biographies, travelogues, etc. They enrich her knowledge and experience. By reading, she said that it also increases her skills of speaking and expression as it enriches her vocabulary and word-power. She has cultivated this hobby from her very young days.

My grandfather encouraged my mother to have and develop this hobby. He often used to take her to bookshops and book exhibitions and bought books of her interest and liking. She began with moral stories, fables and fairy tales. My mom found them so interesting, instructive and entertaining that soon she became a book-lover. Her love and interest in books are quite natural as it has evolved with the passage of time. She has a good collection of her own books. My mom bought them with her pocket money. As my mom said, many of them she got as prizes and many others were given to her as gifts on her birthdays. There is hardly any book in my mom's personal library which she has not read at least twice. And some of them, she has read many times over.

Every time she reads them, she finds a new meaning, more enjoyment, more knowledge and some new experience. They are my mom's best friends. She never feels sad or alone because of them. The pleasure they give her is and everlasting type and very valuable. "Plain Living and High Thinking", is her motto. So, my mother is also my best friend. She can understand me and help me to solve my problems with the help of her great hobby. There is no match for the love of mother. We cannot find the examples of her love in this world.

Interviewing my mother

My mom is a caring and a great person for my sister and me. She struggles with many difficulties but still don't fail to put a smile on her face in front of us. She takes a good care of both my sister and me and she always make sure we never feel left out.

Me: When's your birthday?

Mom: My birthday is in February 6th 1983.

Me: What are your hobbies?

Mom: Reading and Watching movies

Me: What do you love to do when you were a kid?

Mom: Playing around with my friends

Me: Did you play any kind of sports when you were young?

Mom: Nope. I'm not a sport person.

Me: What was your favorite subject in school?

Mom: None but if I have to choose one that would be History.

Me: That's it. Thank you for answering my questions.

Mom: Your Welcome.

My mom is a brave woman. I described brave because she deserved it. The word brave, describe a lot. I am from broken family. My father left us when I was 2 and half year old. Now I have 3 family members, me, my twin sis and my mom. So, she had to worked hard to treat us and send us to this school. I interviewed my mom and she said her favorite color is red, very bright red. She doesn't have the best childhood and her childhood was hard to be honest. She was from the broken family either. Her hobby is sleeping because she had worked hard every day. She is a real business woman! She also enjoys reading her favorite books. She didn't care about us until we were 10. Before we were 10, we have to stay with baby sitter and grown up just like every broken family does. She is 1980 born. She doesn't like to watch neither television nor listen to songs. All she like to do is work. That's it for my mom interview.

An Interview with my elder sister

My sister and I have a very healthy relationship. We weren't that close when we were young. As I got older, we started telling each other everything, give advices which got us closer. We don't really fight like others but we argue for unnecessary things sometimes. It's actually fun to argue with her. We have lots of things in common. We like to go outdoors instead of staying at home. There's one thing that I hate about her, even though I love her so much. It is when she cancels plans just because she's lazy. We're cool though.

Now, I'm going to interview her by asking some silly questions.

Me: Who's your idol? Why?

My sister: "My idol is Angelina Jolie because she's a famous celebrity and she cares about poor people, adopted children and she's not arrogant about her status".

Me: What's been the best day of your life so far?

My sister: "The best day in my life is when I got accepted to University of Manchester".

Me: What do you want to be in 5 years?

My sister: "I want to be a famous business woman and help people that are in need like my idol, Angelina Jolie".

Me: One thing you don't like about me. Why?

My sister: "Remember when I asked you to take your hoodie to any of our trips, you deny to take it and told me you didn't need it and then on the way you asked me my hoodie because you were cold. You made me look like a bad person with your pouty face if I didn't give you. I really hate it".

Me: What's one thing you've never told me?

My sister: "I think I don't have anything that I've never told you".

Me: What's your greatest fear in life?

My sister: "I have a claustrophobia. I'm scared of being locked up in dark small space".

My mom is an excellent for me. She takes care of two children, house chores and business. She looks active but, she must be tired. When she goes shopping she doesn't buy anything for herself, she buys a lot for me and my sister.

My mom said when she was young her mom doesn't let her teach swimming because that is a waste of time and her skin will burn. My grandmother was a businesswoman she opens the glossaries shop. At that time there is only one worker to help her so my mom can't go anywhere. She has to cook for the family and do house chore. My grandma teaches her a lot, even when exam is nears, she still has to help her. Only the shop close she has to study for the exam. When she has to attend tuition and when the shop needs to buy something on the way she has to buy it and go to tuition with a lot of bags. Time by time she gets lots of lesson from our grandma and she became a businesswoman too. She does a lot of work such as shopkeeper, travel and tour, selling ticket and travel agency. She is a wonderful person. She does a lot of us and she even let us attend in international school.

It has been great to interviewing my mom. I feel sadness and happiness at the same time. I am very grateful that I have such a great mom.

Interviewing my mom

For this assignment, I decided to interview my mom. She is a strong woman who raise two kids me and my brother. She is very generous and would never expect anything in return. My mom grew up in a small town called Keng Tung. She was born and raised there. My mom is the 2nd oldest in her siblings. My mom used to work at a farm at a very young age and she always told me about her childhood almost every night. When I hear her story, it sounded rough. My mom and I have a strong and healthy relationship. My mom knows me better than anyone else and sometimes I feel like she knows me better than I know myself. I always come up to her when things get hard or the things I struggle and she always told me to never give up and live a happy life. Her hobby is cooking. She spends hours on kitchen trying to make food and her food are always delicious and moth watering. She is the best cook in my family. My mom take care of me like no one else. She is the most hardworking person I have ever met in my entire life.

My dad's first visit to the United States

I interviewed my dad about his best place to visit. He visited to America when he was seventeen turning eighteen in 1996. He took a plane with transit from Yangon to Bangkok, Bangkok to Taipei and Taipei to San Francisco. The plane he took from Yangon was really small and nothing compare to the plane he took from Bangkok and Taipei. The first week he got there, there's the usual day and night problem. The time zone switched so the sleeping schedule was a mess in the first week. He visited his cousins and famous places there. He went to the Center Cruise, Lombard Street, Pier 39 and Golden Gate Bridge. He even rode a cable car across San Francisco. The first thing he noticed is that the environmental changes. It's really clean and green there. People didn't litter on streets. He felt free yet home sick. It's really cold there. The winter temperature here is the same as the summer temperature there. It's moist and got fresh air in the United States. He felt the big difference when he got there, including people and even food. The people there are very respectful, well-mannered and independent. The communication system is just amazing. They're also really tall compared to Burmese people. But that doesn't mean it's bad. It's just something he noticed. The food is OUT-STANDING. My dad loves sweet food such as ice-cream, chocolate and sugary food. His favorite food there are roasted duck, ice-cream and chocolate. The taste is really different from what he has ever eaten. It's extra-ordinary. He attended high school for 3 months in America and was in shocked when he saw the school. It's really big and many international teachers and students are there. There is enormous place for track and field, swimming pool and many other sports event. It's like entering an Olympic village. The school bus is really big and the drivers are really careful since there are a good number of children in the car. But these doesn't stop him from coming back to Yangon. He really misses my mom and couldn't even have as much fun as it was supposed to be. He came back to Yangon and attended 1st year of college but didn't finish it. So, he joined the business community and became a business man he is today.

Family Interview Assignment

Today, I have interviewed my little brother. He is 8 years old. He is attending Primary-3. He likes playing football. He is a quite kid. He likes playing games, watching Youtube and cartoons. Sometimes he do some art and craft things like paper planes and ect. He is into music. He is a nice kid.

Hello, I'm Yupar. I'm 12 years old. I grew up with my brother and my parents. My mom was a nurse before my brother was born and my father owns a car dealership. My parents are respectable people and don't really fight as much. Even though my brother and I weren't the most well-behaved kids both my parents were patient.

My Mom was born in November 21st which makes her a Scorpio and her favorite subject was history. She loves cooking and baking which made me interested in it ,too.

Thanks mom, for taking care of two lousy kids :)

My parents aren't feeling well and they're busy so I interviewed my elder sister, Yun Yupar Lwin aka Dimple. She's 18 and 4 years older than me. Turquoise is her favorite color. She has the same hobbies as me which are playing piano, drawing and swimming. She's a great athlete. She wants to become an artist when she grows up. My sister is beautiful to me. She's an introvert and a shy girl. Hard to believe, she's a good player in martial arts. We have a lot of things in common. We hate each other a lot when we quarrel but most of the time, I love her so much and she loves me so much, too.

Interviewing my younger brother

My 10-year-old brother is Zwe Nyi Nyi Htet. He is attending school at ILBC. My Brother is very clever and ambitious but little cunning. Sometimes we watch movies, play sports, board games and make short movies together.

During his free time, he likes playing online games like Valorant, Roblox with his friends, watch anime and collecting Pokémon cards. His favorite gamer is TenZ. His favorite food is chocolate, Milo and Sushi. He likes listening to Inde music. His favorite song is Sun flower.

He said he wanted to go to Japan one day because he likes anime. My Hero Academia is his favorite anime. His favorite anime character is Deku. His favorite movies are Spiderman into the Spider verse, Avengers Endgame and Jonny English. His favorite actor is Tom Holland. His favorite Athlete is Messi. He enjoys playing Football. His favorite instrument is Guitar.

My brother said that he one day wanted to post Gaming videos on YouTube and get Dimond play button. His goal is to get all A on school subjects .He wants to own a Gaming PC, too.

Interview with my brother

I interviewed my cousin brother; his name is Hein Htet Zaw. But I call him fatty because he is fat. He is 14 years old and attending 8th grade. He is very talkative and he is really a stubborn person. His dad told him to do some exercises to lose weight, but he did not even care what his father said. He keeps eating a lot of food. He plays Games. Sometimes, he watches YouTube. His hobbies are riding bicycle, swimming, listening music and drawing. He likes creating new things. Every time I asked him about his ambition, he always answered that he wants to be a scientist when he gets older. I told him scientist cannot be very fat, then he laughed. He is a smart boy and he is trying his best to become a scientist.

I chose to interview my mom about her hobbies. She does not have a lot of them, but it's pretty obvious to me that the ones she does enjoy, she really likes to spend her time on.

Gardening. This is a hobby she derives great pleasure from. At the back of our house, there is a plot of land where she plants all different kind of trees of which includes mango trees, papaya trees, plants and flowers. Physical work in a garden or field, truly gives her physical exercise and mental satisfaction. Both the body and mind get strengthened in the fresh, natural atmosphere and I must say I agree.

Another hobby is a hobby she mostly spends her time on and that's watching TV and by watching TV I mean watching K-drama. Out of all the genres, comedy, she is a big fan of and is her go to where as mysterious kinds are not really her cup of tea. The thing about Korean dramas which makes it stand out from the other types of movies, to her is that, it keeps you always curious and just when you think you figured the plot out, there is a plot twist.

My mom is pretty serious/passionate when it comes to cooking and as a matter of fact, she is extremely good at it. In her free times, she'd search up on Google and flip through cookbooks looking for new recipes to try out. Another reason why she loves cooking is because it is a great thing to do when you want to chill in your home and have an excellent time at the same time.

So, these are the hobbies she likes to spend her leisure time on, they look simple and some might even say that they are boring but to her, it's in fact fun plus, interesting and to me as well, I think these are some great ways to use up some time on.

My dad has always been easier to talk to and understands me much more so I decided to choose him to interview. He decided to squeeze this little interview session into his 'busy' schedule which was really sweet of him.

I started off by asking him his hobby. "Ball" he tried responding in English to my question. "You know you can speak in Burmese" I giggled. "Oh right, I like playing football" he replied in Burmese this time. I've seen him play football multiple times with my brother so the answer was quite expected to me but what I didn't expect was for him to somehow manage to make every response to my questions about football. He truly is a football enthusiast.

He started talking about his childhood with his 4 sisters and 5 brothers, they were a very big and happy family. He was the youngest in the family and was quite lazy. He said that all he did was play football and annoy his family. He also mentioned how he was always the class clown and entertained all of his friends. He's always spent time with his siblings' company and it felt weird for him when he got married since he barely has time to spend with them. Once again for his interest, he said watching football matches. All he does these days is watch football games repeatedly, sleep and tell me my routine is unhealthy. Hypocrite. Joking, he's very sweet to me and make me food while I'm doing online classes. Him and I joke around and prank my mom a lot. We have a very fun relationship and I'm grateful to have someone like him.

I thanked him for giving me his time and letting me interview him. "Anytime" he jokingly stood up and bowed. We both laughed as I left his office.

Love, Care, Understanding, with all those affections, my mom would be described the best. She has been there throughout my Bads and goods. Below are some facts about her!

My mom grew up with her aunt, her childhood was poor but she tried her best. She was a hardworking and intelligent child. She helped my aunt with chores, studied as well. She tries to study and work for the best. Her childhood was poor with the military sieving the country. She love to cook for us delicious food every day without getting bored. She try her best to be the best mom for me .

Interviewing my Brother

The person I am interviewing is my brother. He is two years older than me. He is also the oldest child in our family.

We have the same hobbies and interests. He likes playing football and table tennis and so do I. But of course, he is a lot better than I am. We also play the same games but rarely play together as he is always playing with his friends. When we were young, he was very protective of me and would often come to my class to check up on me.

As for our hobbies, we always used to train together. We would play football under the same teacher and the same applies for table tennis. We usually talk about games or random topics I bring up.

When I asked him about his childhood, he did not tell me much. He told me it was fun but sad at the same time. Most of the time he gets scolded as he is the oldest. Sometimes I get away with things so he probably hates me for that.

I like spending time with him and this interview helped us bond. He is very annoying but at the end of the day I am grateful to have him.

I decided to perform an interview with my mother for this assignment. She played an important role in my life upbringing, and she means a lot to me. I learned a lot from her, and I'm still learning. She is just the right person for me; she is fearless, a positive role model, and a constant cheerleader for every milestone I experience. She is always overcome by feelings of love, joy, responsibility, and selflessness. I already knew a lot about my mother because we are really close, like best friends. My mom grew up in a house with four of her sibling's and she is the youngest of all. She has an indomitable spirit and is adored by all because she is the youngest of the family. She was the class's brightest student, and she worked really hard. Her exam grades were consistently above 90. However, she dislikes the subjects in which she was required to memorize facts, therefore she was only good in English and Math. She aspired to be a doctor but was unable to achieve her goal. She earned a bachelor's degree in English. When she was 25 years old, her father planned her marriage with one of his friend's sons, which is my father. After two years of marriage, she gave birth to me. She then quit her work to care for me. She is a really wonderful gift and a privilege that I treasure deeply. With a heart of gold, she always put others first. She sacrifices her body, her time, her sleep, and her mental health, her energies, and everything else, and her life isn't about her anymore. She is the best mom in the world. She gives me the purest love I can find on earth and my love for her is always growing.

Interview with my Cousin Brother

I have interviewed with my big cousin brother Mr.Khant Nyar. He's 19 years old and is attending his first year in Dagon University Yangon. He likes swimming, cycling and drawing. He is also not very talkative. During his free time, he would either read a book or play video-games. His favorite character is Leonardo Dicaprio. He would also do some body-building during his free time. He has long hair and wears glasses. He had a happy childhood and he's very smart.

I interviewed my dad who is 49 years old. As the head of the household my father is really hardworking and provide the family with everything, we need. He was born in the Northern part of Shan State called Kutkai. My dad is the youngest out of all the siblings he had and all of them grew up there. He was short and thin when he was young. His nickname was “thar nge” which means the youngest and many people call him that instead of his real name.

He has a really sociable personality and is outgoing. He loves to play football and volleyball when he was a kid but in his later years, he enjoys reading. He has a whole bookshelf filled with all sorts of books. He is a great leader and is kind to everyone. He was in fact one of the best students in his class and always gets good grade. His favorite subject was Physics. He studied a lot so he had to wear glasses since he was young. When he finishes high school, his whole family moved to Yangon and he attended at the University of foreign Languages, Yangon (YUFL). There he studied Korean language. He graduated in 2003~2004. His first job was at the embassy of Korea where he worked till noon and after he teaches Korean language. Then he flew to Korea where he worked for more than 6 years. Now he owns a company and hotels. Not long after he got back from Korea, he married my mom on 20th November 2005. Now he has 3 daughters and is living his best life.

Instructions

Interview one of your family members for the narrative writing assignment. Feel free to interview them about their hobbies, childhood, interests, relationship with you or any topic of your choice. This would count toward the narrative writing component of our school syllabus.

I interviewed my mother in my family members. She is a house wife who is 44-years-old. Being a house wife, she likes cooking. She has lots of cooking books, such as 10-minute lunch for kids, easy breakfast for family, healthy children's snacks. She likes fish-cakes, pork and all types nonpoisonous fishes. Her hobby is reading books. As she is married and has children, she is busy doing chores. So, she doesn't have time to read books. Her top 1 leisure activity is reading book. Moreover, she buys too many books every month. I think sleeping is also one of her hobbies. She sleeps when she is really tired. She sleeps at 11 pm and wake up at 6 am. And most of all, she didn't have enough sleep.

Her nickname when she was young was "kkamsang", it means black face. She played under the sun when she was young, so she got tanned. She was bright, clever, smart, intelligent and was a shy girl. She is an eager beaver; she was really hard-working student who won many prices. She won diary excellence award, 1st of drawing price, Best speech prices, Writing awards, Speech Excellence Awards and more. She was a tenacious bookworm, plus, she was really into paper dolls. She adored them and always wanted to get teddy bear.

She wasn't sociable and popular, but she was friendly and kind to her classmates. Additionally, she respected teachers and was polite to them. She was an introvert. She prefers 3 or 4 friends instead of having a wide range of friendship. She wanted to be a teacher. She became a teacher majoring Japanese and graduated with the highest grade. She taught Japanese to teachers in university.

My mom went on a missionary trip to Philippines and met my dad at the airport. She fell in love with him and married in 4 months after dating him. They got my sister in 5 months after they get married. And lived happily ever after.

(330 words)

I decided to interview my mom for this paper because she has had a significant role in my upbringing and she means a lot to me. Since my mom and I are very close, like best friend status, I already knew a lot about her which made the interviewing process much easier. My mom and I share a lot of the same views on many issues but have differing views on a few, especially under the diversity category. I live at home with my mom and father and so I see my mom everyday which is one reason why our viewpoints are similar, so we can both avoid cognitive dissonance and it makes the day to day living more manageable.

My mom was born in the 1979 in Yangon. She lived with her parents and grandparents. Where she was growing up in that time period it wasn't a very diverse area, or so she tells me, more like a small community. She met my dad when she was in high school. My dad is 6 years older than my mom. My mom's best friend was my dad's sister. She told me that she did her studies really well when she was in school. When they got married, my parents moved to Bangkok and my brother was born in 2002. After 6 years, I was born too. We lived in Thailand for another 5 years and then we moved to Myanmar again for my studies. That's why our family is fluent in Thailand. She told me that having 2 children were the best part of her life and she's always thankful.

An Interview with my mother

My school asked me to make an interview with one of my family members. So, I took this as an opportunity to ask my beloved mother about her past and childhood. My mother has always been silent and more of an introverted person who doesn't really want to talk for minutes on end on the phone like my father.

When I asked about her childhood, it was mostly alone studying time with music on. She said that she also liked to play as a doctor and teacher. She preferred a quiet place where she could learn her lessons in peace. She also enjoyed music and one of her favorite musicians was Hay Mar Nay Win. She liked watching movies and videos particularly series to this day. Her favorite series was "Dynasty". Her favorite food is the Myanmar traditional food, Mohinga. She likes the color white and her dream, since she was young, was to become a doctor and she accomplished it.

When she was studying to become a doctor, she said that she enjoyed her third year when she had to learn with real patients instead of just teaching from the whiteboard. However, her most memorable time was when she went with the female football team abroad as the team doctor. Her first foreign visit was to Vietnam with the team.

After my birth, she left her government work to care for me. She raised me to be a well-behaved child and also helped me with my lessons. I enjoyed interviewing my mother because it helped me learn about her more and make me feel closer to her. I also get to know the lifestyle of her childhood times and how hard it was for her to become a doctor.

Family Interview Assignment

[REDACTED] In the Olden Days....

[REDACTED] Due to the lack of socialization nowadays, I only get to spend time with my parents and since the teacher let me interview and write about my parents, I asked them, “what did you do when you were young in the 1970s?”

[REDACTED] “In the 1970s you see, there wasn’t this much technology, we cherished every day and night. Cold winters, cold rain, hot summers, we’d play and play”. From what I’ve learned from this that child in the old times are free and they can thrive their lives mostly outsides and not the insides.

[REDACTED] “What were your hobbies back then? “We invested so many time in collections”. From what I’ve heard

Family Interview

I usually have lots of talks with her, so I get lots of information about her from those talks. My mother was an accountant before she gives birth to me. Due to that job, she has so very good mathematics skills and she knows lots of calculation tricks. I admire those specialties very much and this helps me to ask my mom some school Math problems I don't understand.

One thing I like about my mom is her organizing skills and how she handles lots of things well. I really want to know her technique of multi-tasking. I would take 2 hours finishing a chore, but she takes only 1 hour to finish 3 chores. She has an interesting way of predicting the duration of an event well. If something spontaneous comes in, she can just predict the delay and completes all her tasks like a professional.

Another honorable mention from all her talents in this list is her cooking skills. Every dish she makes are very delicious and melts my tongue. Some of my friends like her dishes very much, like her homemade sushi. For now, I will just stop here because I have bragged enough.

Family Interview

I chose to asked about my grandmother for this Family Interview. Ever since I was young, she took care of me since my mom was usually at work and my dad was overseas. I would stay by her side and she would tell me all types of myths and stories. She mostly tells me about her childhood and that's one of my favorites.

She told me that when she was young, she was a smart student. She didn't need to study and she got all the answers correct. You could say that she was basically a bright child when she was young. She was really good at math which is her favorite subject. She used to go to an English boarding school but when her father decided to change her to a government one, she wasn't thrilled. When she arrived there, her first issue was that she wasn't familiar with Burmese language. She only knew some words here or there but she knows full well how to speak English fluently.

The headteacher would call her to their office whenever it's Burmese period so she wouldn't feel left out. There she read some children English book that the teacher kept in her desk. The other students would wander towards the room to see the girl who was from an English school. She was in her glory days until one day, she suddenly passed out. She was in a coma for three days and when she woke up her memories weren't as good as usual anymore. She thought it was hopeless and her grades started to fall. Then her teacher told her, "You are not stupid, you are just lazy" to her. That gave her a little boost so she started to try a bit harder in school.

Even though she lost her great memorizing skill, she still tried her best in school. After that, she graduated and worked as a accouter. But she said she had many regrets as she thought she could do better. Even if she has regrets, I think it was a good childhood she had.

Interview to my mom

There is no one who care me more than my mother the person who care and love me until now. She is loving and kind, have many interests and hobbies. In her days there were no social media so she spends all of her tie in reading, keeping collection and write diaries like any other girls in her day. Sport and keeping stickers and poster were her favorite hobbies, she uses to be a basketball player in her school so it obvious that sports was her favorite thing to do. And there was a huge book collection too but all were hand-me down to me and all the books are interesting and fun to read. Library and Cinema was always the most popular places for every people in the 20th century. Every week she and her friends would go studying and watch movies, when she got in her early age of 20, she started using the computer and it became one of her hobbies when she got older. Chinese language was her favorite language because she grew in a Chinese family and goes to Chinese school like me. Collage life was the happiest part for everyone and is not a surprise for my mom, she is not the popular girl but she is fashionable likes to wear trending clothes. Truly she was a great and nice person to me.

Family Interview

I interviewed my cousin sister, she's 23 and she's currently attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology MIT for short. She's interested in video games and photography. She grew up in Yangon and attended ILBC. She sometimes sends me photographs that she took while she's on campus or going to many different places but she can't do that now since she's just pretty much staying inside.

An interview with my father

I grabbed a pen and paper and walked to my father; he was watching the news. I said “dad can I interview you? Its for my assignment.”, “HuH” an awkward silent filled the air. It’s no surprise since I just randomly asked him while he was watching TV. I explained about the project and we started. First, I started with simple questions like when were you married, he said It was 15 years ago. Then I started to ask a bit more interesting question. I asked what are your hobbies, he said “I love to read mostly about history” then I said any specific topics? He answered “The Myanmar kingdoms are a favorite of mine”. Now for the second question, I rolled up my book and make it looked like a mic then asked How was your childhood, I knew this was a serious question but I thought it would be interesting. He said “my childhood wasn’t a good relaxing one, me and my sisters had to work a lot and we weren’t rich but we never gave up and kept on trying. Your grandpa made us studied a lot and now look at us, we earned this and that is why I want you to try hard too.” I felt inspired. Now for the 3rd question, I asked about his grandparents since I have never met them before, this was a quite sad topic. He said that his grandpa was killed when his father (my grandpa) was just a teen, I won’t go any further since it is very personal. I asked one last question, “ are you happy with your life as of now?” he said with a smile brighter than the sun “yes”. Thanks dad while taking notes I left the room and started writing this. I already knew these things but every time I hear them, I get inspired, from someone who lived a hard and poor life to a man who can support and take care of his family, I think that’s amazing and from doing this interview it has even inspired me more to be someone like him.

Interview with my older brother

My older brother is a gifted person. He was blessed with many talents since he was born. He is also very annoying and like to be very loud. He pretends to be a quiet person in front of other people when he is louder than me.

I asked some simple questions to my older brother.

Me: When is your birthday?

Him: July 18th 2002.

Me: What are your hobbies?

Him: Drawing and playing games.

Me: Can you play any instruments?

Him: Piano

Me: What are your opinion on me?

Him: Waste of money and a disappointment

Family Interview

For this assignment, I decided to interview my sister. She is younger than me by 6 years. We are very close, despite our age differences. I noted down a total of 10 questions that would be suitable for the interview. I asked if I could interview her for an English assignment and she said “yeah, it would be fun.” I had fun doing this interview with her and I am sure she had a good time, too. Overall, I think it was a great bonding time for us.

Me- What are your hobbies?

My sister- These days, it is playing video games and playing with your old ukulele.

Me- Do you like celebrating your birthday?

My sister- Yeah, I do especially if it is with my friends.

Me- What is your favorite sport?

My sister- Badminton, but I haven’t play it in months now.

Me- What is your favorite subject at school? Why?

My sister- Math, because I am good at it and I enjoy working with numbers.

Me- What is your least favorite subject at school? Why?

My sister- Myanmar. Not because I am not good at it. Just because we have to write a lot.

Me- How would you consider our relationship as sisters?

My sister- We fight sometimes but you help me with my school work and other things so I am grateful.

Me- What is your favorite color? Why?

My sister- Red, I like bright colors more than dark colors.

Me- Do you think you do good at school?

My sister- Yes, I get good grades every year.

Me- What is your dream job?

My sister- I want to be an actress because I want to be in movies and as well as TV shows.

Me- What is your favorite food?

My sister- Donuts. I like how it has a lot of flavors. I like all of the flavors but chocolate definitely got to be my favorite one.

I interview to my little brother. So, he is ten and now attending primary 4. He is talkative and really annoying. He plays game a lot and also, he using too much phone which I don't care. As long as he is happy. He is troublemaker just like me. Me and my brother fight all the time which is pretty annoying. Sometime I hate him at the same also love him at the same time. But he is smart and brilliant kids and I also wonder what he will be like when he grows up hopefully, he not that annoying.

A Family Interview

Chosen Family Member: Father

My father's childhood followed a pattern similar to my routine but with a difference in a lack of technology. He was born in a village situated in Inlay. He would study at school and home and use his spare time for playing physical games such as football which certainly peaks my dad's interest during his middle school. I would say that his childhood reached a peak of memorable moments starting from the age of 6. He was introduced to boats and paddling to traverse the giant lakes of Inlay. My father always dreamt of handling the paddle and it would soon come at the age of 10.

One year later, for his 7th birthday, my father was made a novice in a Buddhist monastery. Though not very noteworthy and memorable, this marked an important part of my father's childhood as it signifies his devotion to his religion.

At the age of 12, his spark of interest in music and guitar started as he received a hollow guitar. He had this guitar for many years now and though he used it for a scholarship, it stood and endured with him for many ages.

He wasn't born into nobility and thus, he needed to help his parents with their jobs. My father's childhood was really simple but it's honest work and required a lot of hard work and determination.

•

I interviewed my sister who is younger than me. She is 10 years old and she is attending 5th grade at ILBC. She likes playing Roblox. She is also an army (fan of BTS). Her bias is Jungkook but these days she is obsessed with Jimin. She watches Youtube in her spare time and listen to BTS's new song Permission to Dance. Her favorite sport is badminton and she usually plays with me. Her favorite color is purple. She is afraid of dogs and our mom the most. I am hoping her to grow up well without being obsessed with BTS. I am sick of it.

Family Interview

Of all the people in my family, I chose to question my brother, Alex. He is a 10-year-old fourth grader, also studying in ILBC. Similar to most siblings, my brother and I don't get along very well – mostly because of the difference in age and interests. We do have some films we both enjoy but I usually end up disliking characters he adores.

Alex is born on May 16 of 2012 – a few months before I turn 4. My brother enjoys music, specifically rap or fast music. Not much of a surprise for his age but his favorite food is fast food like hamburgers or French fries. I don't think I've mentioned this before, but Alex dreams to be a youtuber when he's older!! I'm actually really supportive of this though so there's not much trouble about it.

For people born under the same parents, we do have some major difference in personality. My brother ends up being extremely talkative to close friends/family, but he somehow still hates socializing. I'm sure it's obvious that I'd be a complete opposite. My brother's favorite subject is surprisingly science – a subject which I despise. He's really smart at it too, better than me at it sometimes.

Although me and my brother continuously get into conflicts, he still cares and helps me when I'm down. Even if we have our differences... He still is my family.

I interview to my mom about her hobbies, childhoods and her interests. My mom is 43 years old she is working as a dentist as well as a designer but, she quitted that job and work just as a dentist. She is really smart when she was at high school, I once asked my grandma about my mom when she was at 4th or 5th grade my mom read the letters upside down which make the others very amazed. She still remember the math problems even is has been for 26 years when she just look at it and she understand the problems and can solve for me which I understand very well. Her cooking is also great but my dad cooks more than my mom, but both are hardworking peoples. In last year, my mom goes to the clinic, and she work there as a dentist but now because of the virus we all are just staying at home. I have asked my mom about her interests she said she really like meditating ,yoga or doing a breathing exercise in a place like Switzerland or a beautiful natural places which there aren't a lot of peoples she like it as long as it clam her mind and the stress too. My mom doesn't have that much hobbies like other people she just like to meditate most of the times for 1 or 2 hours. Every morning she make an yoga exercise which cool her mind down.

Home is a very complicated word with lots of meaning. Home does not always define where you live; it defines the place where you feel like yourself. I decided to interview my step-brother Gabe for this assignment, whom I have known for half of my life. I have always wanted to know more about his life, especially how his life was before we met each other, and this assignment gave me the perfect chance to do so. First, I asked him about his childhood, interests and dreams he had as a kid / teenager, and what his relationship with his parents was like. Having to grow up with an aggressive dad who never cared about his feelings, and a very short-tempered mom who had to take care of everything in the family, his childhood was not the best. He even showed me a photograph of his younger self. He was a small, skinny, curly haired boy with doe eyes and parents who cared more about the Bible than being good to their own child. He told me that he used to wear only long-sleeved shirts because his father made him feel insecure about his fore arms.

His father forced him to have hobbies and do sports that he had no interest in taking part of. A painter was what he wanted to be when he grew up. It was not a silly childhood dream though. He was genuinely ambitious for becoming one, and was properly talented at painting and had so much potential. Painting was sort of a coping mechanism for him, a way of escaping reality, he said.

As he grew a bit older, he began to love knitting. Yes, knitting. He taught himself how to knit, and it became one of his favorite hobbies. His classmates would be playing soccer in the field, when he would be knitting wool jackets in his room. He even gave me one of his cozy wool jackets as a special gift for my last birthday!

Next, I asked him what his biggest accomplishment in life has been. He smiled and hesitantly said that getting into his university and starting his own paint gallery were two of the hugest moments of his life. After going quiet for a moment, he said that "not giving up on himself" was also his biggest accomplishment throughout his entire life.

The last question I asked him was: "How would you describe what I mean to you in one sentence?" I thought this was a clever question and the best way to end this interview.

His smile dropped a bit, "Well, that's very hard to answer," he said.
"I know," I said back, smiling. "It's a really good question though," I added.
He thought for a second. Then, he said,
"Home. You feel like home to me."

My sister

I have a sister who is 16-year-old. She is at 10th grade and she is a very kind person. Yesterday I asked her about her hobbies and she said that her favorite hobby was watching a movie or playing badminton. She is a very talented person. She has won many prizes playing badminton. Her favorite subject is science and she wanted to become a great doctor. She would sometime read facts on the internet about medicine or how to treat wound.
